

Finding Your Inner Modeler

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS AT CHICAGO

JULY 13, 2017

A ONE-DAY WORKSHOP ON:

How computational biology can advance your research . . .
 . . . and how to get started.

Overview

This workshop kicks off a 3-year program designed to help cell biologists with no experience in modeling gain confidence and build fruitful collaborations. See detailed schedule at <https://pages.wustl.edu/haswell/finding-your-inner-modeler>.

Keynote Speakers

Wallace Marshall, UCSF • Rob Phillips, Caltech

Presenters/Panelists

Mary Baylies, Sloan-Kettering • Angela DePace, Harvard • Leslie Loew, U. of Connecticut
 Carlos Lopez, Vanderbilt • Alex Mogilner, NYU • Ben Prosser, U. of Pennsylvania
 Vivek Shenoy, U. of Pennsylvania • Max Staller, Washington University in St. Louis
 Marcos Sotomayor, Ohio State • Shelby Wilson, Morehouse College

Details

No registration fee!

Travel, lodging and registration support are available for a limited number of participants.

Register by March 31, 2017 for fullest consideration.

Graduate students, postdocs and under-represented minorities at all career stages are strongly encouraged to apply.

Register at <http://tinyurl.com/NSFmodelingworkshop>.

For additional information, contact David Stone:

dstone@uic.edu

Funded by NSF MCB

registration

info